

Contents

Preface

vii

1 Trends in Development Theory in Latin America: From Prebisch to the Present Dilmus D. James and James L. Dietz	1
Part 1 Structuralism as a Theory of Economic Development
2 Import Substitution in Latin America in Retrospect Robert J. Alexander	15
3 Structuralism, Dependency, and Institutionalism: An Exploration of Common Ground and Disparities Osvaldo Sunkel	29
4 Latin American Structuralist Economics: An Evaluation, Critique, and Reformulation James M. Cypher	41
Part 2 Failures of Past Development Strategies: Lessons for the Future
5 Latin America's Debt Crisis, the International Monetary Fund, and Financial Reform Ronnie J. Phillips	69
6 The Evolution of Argentina's Policies Toward Manufacturing Exports Hugh Schwartz	85
7 Technology, Ceremonies, and Institutional Appropriateness: Historical Origins of Mexico's Agrarian Crisis William E. Cole	103

Part 3 Strategies for Development: Toward Renewed Growth and Equity in Latin America

8	Reflections on Latin American Development Osvaldo Sunkel	133
9	Science, Technology, and Development Dilmus D. James	159
10	Technological Autonomy, Linkages, and Development James L. Dietz	177
11	A Latin American Development Model for the Future James L. Dietz and Dilmus D. James	201
References		210
About the Contributors		226
Index		228